Dear Colleagues,

The portfolio of continuing medical education (CME) courses offered in 2017 is designed to address your learning needs and preferences, and help you provide safe and effective patient care. The CME Courses Committee members, course directors, and faculty are dedicated to delivering unbiased, peer-reviewed, high quality programs to meet your lifelong learning needs.

Whether you need to prepare for a certifying examination, enhance your surgical skills in the OLC Education and Conference Center, or improve outcomes, the Academy's CME programs offer the expertise and content you need with an engaging, participative approach to meet your educational goal. You asked for increased faculty interaction, blended online and on-site participation, greater hands-on lab time, and more interactive case discussions. The 2017 course collection delivers all that – plus free webinars as part of your member benefits.

Your learning experience is our priority:

- More hands-on time to practice your surgical skills on cadaveric specimens in the state-of-the-art OLC
- New blended course on Trauma offering a 1-day in-person meeting and a convenient menu of online options to complete the course
- Online Tumor Review program for no-travel, low-cost learning
- FREE live clinical webinars – as individual events, and as supplemental education in conjunction with select CME courses
- Exceptional certification preparation programs to prepare for MOC, Part I, and Part II ABOS Examinations. Specialty review courses are also in development to help you prepare for new specialty recertification exams.
- CME courses offered in partnership with orthopaedic specialty societies

Each AAOS CME course helps you improve clinical decision making and problem solving – skills and solutions you can apply in a typical day of practice immediately. Visit aaos.org/courses for schedule updates throughout the year.

We look forward to your participation in the 2017 Academy CME programs and always welcome your feedback at cmecourses1@aaos.org.

Sincerely,
